

BIGGEST "TATER" IN FULTON RAISED AT CONVICT CAMP

One of the biggest "taters" which has been produced in Fulton county soil this year was grown at Bellwood convict camp in the county "garden."

RALPH S. BUTLER,

Secretary of county public works department and some big "taters" grown at Bellwood convict camp.

This big sweet potato weighs eight pounds, and, according to County Warden C. H. Girardeau's figures, would provide a sufficient number of "calories" to keep ten soldiers going for twelve hours.

Another freak from the Bellwood camp was unearthed in the shape of three big potatoes closely bound together with a rusty horseshoe.
